The Senate Discusses Inter-State Commerce.

VAN WYCK OPPOSES RAILROADS

Secretary McCulloch Advises Congress to Legislate Relief for the Whisky Men Washington Notes

Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan 16.—Among the memorials presented was one from 3000 cigarmakers of Philadelphia setting forth that ratification of the pending Spanish treaty would throw out of employment more citizens of the United States than there are inhabitants in Cuba and Porto Rico, and protesting against its ratification. A number of other petitions against ratification of the treaty were presented and referred.

A message from the house was received, announcing the disagreement of that body to the senate amendments to the temporary naval appropriation bill, and asking a conference, and the chair appointed conferrees.

The chair then laid before the senate the inter-state commerce bill.

VAN WYCK FAVORS THE HOUSE BILL

Van Wyck addressed the senate. He said that since 1872 all political parties had demanded redress from grievances in transportation, but party managers seemed to learn no lesson from disasters, and were still trying to amuse and cajole people. The people only demanded reasonable rates, no discrimination, no pooling, no rebates, and no greater charge for a short than a long haul. "This," he said, "is no time to delay. The work of deception cannot longer be carried on. You cannot pretend a willingness to do something, and that an obstinate or unwilling house of representatives refuses. If the senate falters now to accept the house bill an indignant people will believe it falters in a double sense, and is seeking by disagreement to prevent legislation so long sought and long denied. The roads owned and controlled the elevators, and the farmer, if he desired, could not possibly ship his own grain or cattle to market, for he could obtain no rebates. The power of absolute control by railroads was not always exercised in a saintly manner. To illustrate: The Union Pacific became incensed at Columbus, an active interior city of Nebraska, whose citizens were enterprising and aided to secure another road. The company determined they should be punished for such temerity and rebellion, so unfair rates were charged, and more was charged per carload from Omaha than to Kearney and points further west. So the Central Pacific, without the excuse of revenge or punishment of rebellious subjects in their territory, actually charges to points east of San Francisco through rates to San Francisco, and then local rates back. Was it not evident that the railroads should be restricted from exacting more for a short haul than a long one?

CONGRESSMEN FINANCIALLY INTERESTED

Van Wyck quoted from a letter written by William Walter Phelps, in which he said the latter showed that senators and representatives purchased railroad shares on a basis of one to three. "Certainly," he said, "stocks and bonds, according to this evidence, are owned in this chamber, and at the other end of the capitol, on that basis,—that is, you put down one dollar and take up three." So it would appear that even members of congress learn where the "little joker" is. No wonder there is here manifested the same contempt for public clamor as Vanderbilt is said to have exhibited in language more forcible, but not so reverential as by distinguished senators.

According to the written and printed statement of one of New Jersey's statesmen and [illegible], $4,000,000,000 in fictitious watered stock was represented in the stocks and bonds of railroads. On this interest and dividends were collected from the people,—made a mortgage on every acre of land in the republic,—an infliction paralyzing industry by laying a tax upon the producer and the consumer,—yet we must remand all this to the natural laws of trade. Jay Gould had greater wealth than the assessed property, real and personal, of both Kansas and Nebraska, and Vanderbilt could buy both states and have $40,000,000 left. Were these millions honestly acquired? The senator from Iowa (Wilson) trembled lest too much would be done, and the senator from Kansas (Ingalls) said he did not stand as advocate or champion of "that cheap demagoguery that appeals to public opinion against railroads."

WHY COAL AND CORN ARE HIGH.

Continuing, Van Wyck said: "The toilers in the coal mines of the east are suffering for bread, and the farmers of the west are suffering for coal, and the railroads are to blame. Your sympathy expands for the pauper labor of Europe and India, while your hearts seem steeled against the cry for bread of Americans, who are forced to work at starvation wages, or have their places supplied in the mines owned by specially protected mine owners, by pauper and convict labor, imported under contract from Europe. It is the cry of the poor seeking labor in the furnace heat, and in the underground labyrinth, and the settler in the dugout on the frontier of Kansas and Nebraska, whose wives and children are drawing warmth from corn because the great corporations refuse to reduce rates of freight, so the coal of Pennsylvania may be exchanged for the corn of the west. For twenty years these corporations have grown rich, strong and defiant towards the law, and now let us see to it that the protection of the law shall be given to those who are the victims of their extortion."

AN UNANSWERED QUESTION

McPherson and Mitchell opposed Slater's pending amendment, prohibiting railroads from charging more for a short than a long haul; also Ingalls.

Van Wyck addressed a question to the senator from Kansas (Ingalls): Was it right to charge the same rates from Chicago to Kansas City as to Leavenworth?

Ingalls made no reply. The inquiry was repeated, but still without eliciting a response.

Van Wyck said that while the senator from Kansas was pondering over his reply he would propound the same question to the senator from Iowa (Allison).

Allison said he did not want to get into a colloquy with his friend from Nebraska.

Van Wyck—No, I should think not. [Laughter.]

Allison said the rates to both points ought to be reasonable.

Ingalls thought the compensation of roads should be proportioned to distance.

George offered an amendment, providing that Slater's proposed amendment "shall not be construed to legalize the charging as much for a shorter as for a longer distance, in any case." George's amendment was agreed to, as modifying Slater's amendment, the latter, however not being a part of the bill, but still under debate.

BROWN OPPOSES THE BILL

Brown of Georgia said the legislation proposed would greatly discourage the building of railroads. There may be enough of them in the north and west. Those sections may have enough game in the trap to be able to afford to pull the trigger. It was not so with the south, which yet needed railroads. If the present bill passed people who were now clamoring for its passage would then be found clamoring for its repeal. It would either drive the railroads into bankruptcy or else it would prohibit the interchange of commodities at a greater distance than 500 or 600 miles, as statistics quoted by Brown showed that freight could not possibly bear the same proportionate rate for 1000 miles. It would not only destroy inter-state commerce, but by making long-distance freights from the west to the Atlantic coast so expensive as to prohibit shipment, it would also destroy our foreign commerce. Adjourned until to-morrow.

House

WASHINGTON, Jan 16.—Cobb reported a conference disagreement upon the bill to forfeit the unearned Atlantic and Pacific land grant. Cobb stated that the difference between the two houses grew out of an amendment placed upon the bill by the senate and commonly known as the Morgan amendment. He desired that the house should give an expression of its opinion in respect to the amendment.

Hiscock moved that the house recede from its disagreement to the senate amendment; lost, 45 to 65.

On motion of Cobb the senate amendment to the Oregon Central land grant bill was non-concurred in.

The house went into committee of the whole, and remained in session several hours, considering war claim bill, but no final action was reached.

The Indian appropriation bill was reported and placed on the calendar.

Wood presented a petition, signed by 1500 citizens of his district, in favor of the Mexican pension bill; referred.

Recess was taken until 8. The evening session is for the consideration of pension bills.

FOR WHISKY MEN

Secretary McCulloch Advises Congress to Pass a Bill for their Relief

WASHINGTON, Jan 16.—Secretary McCulloch to-day transmitted to the house of representatives the draft of a bill presented by the commissioner of internal revenue, to amend the law relating to distilled spirits in distillery and special bonded warehouses, and the withdrawal of the same therefrom. The bill provides that the tax on all distilled spirits hereafter entered for deposit in distillery warehouses or in special bonded warehouses, or remaining in such warehouses at the time of the passage of this act, shall be payable before and at the time the same are withdrawn therefrom, except in cases of withdrawals therefrom without payment of tax, as now or hereafter authorized by law. Warehousing bonds hereafter taken, under the provisions of section 3293 revised statutes, shall be conditioned for the payment of tax on spirits, as specified in the entry, before removal from distillery warehouses.

Provided, that this act shall not apply to distilled spirits remaining in warehouse at the time of its passage and which are covered by warehousing bonds, unless there shall be endorsed upon the warehousing bonds a written request for extension of the time fixed in said bond for withdrawals of such distilled spirits, and a written acknowledgment by the principal and sureties of their liability for the entire period such spirits may be actually permitted to remain in distillery warehouse.

Provided, further, that no additional allowance for leakage shall be made beyond the limit now allowed by law.

THE BILL ENDORSED

The secretary of the treasury strongly recommends the immediate passage of this bill, as tending to relieve the present business depression. He says, in his letter of transmission: "The manufacture of whisky is one of the most important branches of domestic industry in the United States, and is at the present time, like other manufacturing interests, greatly suffering from over production. This legitimate business, from which large revenues are derived, is not only depressed by over production, but by being burdened by heavy taxes, payment of which, as is the case with no other article, is required within a fixed period, whatever may be the condition of the market. In other words, the present whisky tax is a tax on production, and is thus in contravention of the general policy of our own government and the policy of other enlightened nations which derive large revenues from articles of a similar character. As long as the manufacture of whisky is lawful, it should be treated with even-handed justice. It cannot be otherwise treated without detriment to the public welfare. I recommend the passage of this bill, as a matter of simple justice to the manufacturers and holders of whisky, which can hardly fail to be beneficial to general trade, and consequently to the treasury."

WASHINGTON NOTES

THE INDIAN BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan 16.—The Indian appropriation bill agreed upon by the house committee on appropriations provides for the appropriation of $5,604,1[illegible]. The estimates amounted to $7,28[illegible]. The appropriation made by the last session of congress, for the present fiscal year, was $5,589,403. The bill provides for fine and imprisonment, whenever any person shall furnish any Indian guns or ammunition, except civilized Indians of Indian territory. The president is empowered to disarm such Indians as, in his judgment, may seem best to preserve peace and prevent depredations. The bill further provides for punishment by fine and imprisonment of persons introducing ardent spirits into an Indian country.

THE GRANT BILL

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 16.—The Call's Washington special says: It appears to be the intention of some members of congress to harrass the president with the bill for the retirement of Grant. The bill which passed the senate does not contain the name of any one, but it is understood the house will lay this bill aside, and pass a bill containing Grant's name, which passed the senate last session. If this bill is passed the president will be compelled to veto it, on the same ground as the Fitz John Porter bill. General Slocum, in an interview, said he would call up the senate bill to retire Grant on the first opportunity, and push it through the house. The president would then be compelled to retract his objections to the Porter bill, or veto the Grant bill.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

WASHINGTON, Jan 16.—Rear Admiral Powell is dead.

Senator Sabin's substitute bill for the relief of homestead settlers provides that settlers on public lands, under the homestead laws, shall be entitled, one year from date of entry, to establish actual residence upon the land.

The president has directed flags on the executive departments at Washington to be placed at half mast to-morrow, in respect to the memory of ex-Vice-President Colfax, whose funeral takes place on that day.

Nominations—postmasters: Thomas W Ferry, Modesto, California; Archibald McDonnell, Benicia, California.

BAD NEWS FOR GENERAL GRANT

WASHINGTON, Jan 16.—At a meeting of the house committee on military affairs Representative Slocum was authorized to call up in the house, at the first opportunity, the first bill introduced in the senate the present congress, providing for placing General Grant on the retired list. At a meeting of the committee to-day a motion authorizing him to call up the bill passed by the senate the 14th inst., and having for its object the retirement of General Grant, was lost, 8 to 2. Those opposing the proposition were Rosecrans, Slocum, Morgan, Wolford, Murray, Connolly, Lyman and Bayne. Those favoring it were Cutcheon and Steel.

THE YEAR'S YIELD OF GRAIN

WASHINGTON, Jan 16.—The annual report of the department of agriculture now in press, makes the record of corn production for 1884, 1,795,000,000 bushels; wheat, nearly 513,000,000, and oats 583,000,000. These aggregates are the largest ever recorded. The rate of yield is 25.8 bushels of corn, wheat 13 and oats 27.4. These are figures for the permanent record.

NO PENSION FOR MRS. DELONG

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The senate committee on pensions has reported adversely the bill to grant a pension of $50 a month to Emma DeLong, widow of the late Lieutenant Commander DeLong of Jeannette fame. The report of the majority merely recommends indefinite postponement of the bill.

TRAINS BLOCKADED BY SNOW

CHICAGO, Jan 16.—Owing to snow, trains to-night range from one to nine hours behind time, and fast mails are generally two or three hours late. The situation is worse in the south east and east. A passenger train coming this way, on the Chicago, Lafayette and Cincinnati road, was, when last heard of, locked in the drifts near St Anne. Another passenger train on the Louisville and New Albany, due here this evening, is caught in a snow bank a few miles from this city, and the people on board will probably bivouac in the coaches all night. Shortly after midnight the temperature, which had previously been comparatively comfortable, began a rapid descent, and is now near zero. The snow, that recommenced Thursday, is still falling. Reports from all over the northwest and east, indicate unusual snow storms and cold weather, which has damaged the railroads and telegraph lines.

TO PUNISH TEACHERS OF POLYGAMY

NASHVILLE, Tenn, Jan 16.—Since the murder of Gibbs and Berry, Mormon elders, in Lewis county, while conducting worship last August, and the publication of serious charges of immorality made against them by the people among whom they labored, public opinion has been aroused, and a determination manifested to prevent further proselyting. Notwithstanding the massacre, elders have been working quietly in several counties, and to prevent the expounding of their doctrine, and guard against other possible deadly affrays, a bill was to-day introduced in the legislature to punish the teaching of the doctrine of polygamy by a fine of $500 and imprisonment for two or three years, at the discretion of the court. It is likely that the measure will become a law.

HIGH WATER

NEW ORLEANS, Jan 16.—The Picayune's Shreveport special: The weather is the coldest of the season—10 above zero. There was a heavy snow storm this forenoon. The river rose a foot and a tenth since yesterday. Several planters from below have brought stock here, and others have retreated to the hills for safety. The lakes and bayous are booming, and the people are seeking high ground. All railroads are submerged. The New Orleans train, due yesterday morning, arrived this evening. The Vicksburg train was stopped by a washout, near Monroe.

CINCINNATI, Jan 16.—The rain of the past forty hours changed to sleet this afternoon, and to-night it is snowing. The Ohio river has risen nine feet in the past twenty-four hours, and to-night is thirty-four feet five inches and rising rapidly. It is hardly believed, however, that a serious flood will ensue, as no reports have reached here of snow at head waters, such as preceded previous high waters.

THE HOCKING VALLEY TROUBLES

COLUMBUS, O, Jan 16.—Reports from the Hocking Valley this evening are that there are mysterious movements among miners between the village and another, and a general feeling of uneasiness prevails. Assistant Adjutant General Hill returned to-day from making a visit among the miners of Straitsville, Nelsonville, and along Sunday creek, on a branch of the Hocking Valley railway. He reports that Monday and Sunday creeks were on a rampage, and water was spreading over the valleys. This, he thinks, will prevent an outbreak for several days, and he also ventures the opinion that the action of the legislature in authorizing an official investigation may have a restraining influence. Colonel Hill reported his investigation to the governor and adjutant general this evening, but they refuse to divulge anything, but an impression prevails that a small force of troops stationed at Straitsville will prevent trouble.

THE BURNED STEAMER AQUABA

GALVESTON, Jan 16.—The British steamship Acquaba, whose cargo was reported by to-day's associated press dispatches as burning off Dover, left Galveston for Bremen December 15, coaling at Newport. From Walker & Fowler, agents at this city, it is ascertained that the Acquaba carried 4715 bales of cotton and 300 sacks of oil cake. The total value of the cargo was about $25,000, insured abroad. The Acquaba was an iron built vessel 1200 tons, and owned by Thomas Stockdale, Sunderland, England.

TO BE INQUIRED INTO.

COLUMBUS, Jan 16.—The senate to-day adopted the house joint resolution for appointment of a legislative committee of investigation into the condition of affairs in Hocking valley, to make a report by February 15. The resolution makes inquiry as to the causes of the strike.

SELFISH PHILADELPHIANS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan 16.—It was said here to-day that an organized movement had begun to prevent Liberty bell from being sent to New Orleans. A number of gentlemen, it was added, have subscribed a large sum of money to take legal measures to keep the bell in Philadelphia.

A GREAT STRIKE INEVITABLE

TRENTON, N. J., Jan 16.—A strike by the operative potters seems to be assured. All efforts at a compromise have failed. Thousands of men and women will be thrown out of employment.

BUSINESS FAILURES

Particulars of the Pittsburg Suspension and the New York Failure

PITTSBURG, January 16.—Pittsburg banks have decreased their holdings largely within a year, much of the paper being paid voluntarily by the firm. In one bank the firm reduced its paper $100,000 within one year. Considering the extent of the firm, but a comparatively small amount of the weight falls upon Pittsburg shoulders.

One of the causes of the suspension doubtless was the heavy loss made by the firm on a contract for pipe which it made with a mining company in California. This pipe was made and shipped to California, and all condemned.

Unsecured debts of the firm comprise, it is said, about one-half its liabilities. This is largely owing to furnace ore. The company has secured creditors largely interested in local banks, and the banks are generally willing to agree to an extension. There is no doubt of obtaining assent of the unsecured creditors.

The Wood Run and South Side mills of the firm are all in operation to-day. At the Wood Run mill a full set of hands were at work, at reduced wages. On the south side many of those who refused to work at the reduction offered went back to work this morning.

A STATEMENT PROMISED

It is expected that next Tuesday Oliver Bros & Phillips will make a formal statement of their affairs. The firm says it will make its statement to creditors first, and to the public afterward, and no information can be had until Tuesday. The liabilities will be nearly $6,000,000, $5,000,000 being summarily given by those connected with financial institutions. A large proportion of this is secured by collateral of various kinds, and is held by banks. Banks of Pittsburg hold considerable of this paper, but it is nearly all well secured. Banks in many parts of the country, east and west, also hold the firm's paper, eastern financial institutions owning large blocks.

A PHILADELPHIAN'S OPINION

PHILADELPHIA, Jan 16.—"No," said Secretary James M Swank of the American Iron and Steel Association to-day, "I do not look for any failure in the eastern iron trade as an outcome of the failure of Oliver Bros & Phillips of Pittsburg. Philadelphia makers have no business relations with Pittsburg manufacturers and the two trades are quite distinct. We do not send iron there and they do not send it to us. The failure, however, must have a depressing effect upon the iron business generally and how far that will go is a question which I cannot answer. It comes at a particularly bad time, as you will see. The people are just beginning to look for a revival of business. Confidence was gradually returning, and the hope was that the worst was over. Now this throws everything back where it was before and we see that after all the bottom has not yet been reached. Oliver Bros were interested in several large concerns. Their rolling mills produced more iron than those of any other concern in the United States, and the capital invested was very extensive."

The Cisco Bank Failure

NEW YORK, Jan 16.—When the stock exchange opened this morning a desperate attempt was made by the bears to depress prices, based upon the Cisco failure. The attempt did not succeed. It is evident that the market is being strongly supported. Careful, conscientious and conservative members of the exchange say trouble need not be feared from the Cisco failure alone. The firm was not a speculative one, and its obligations to members of the exchange are small. Mr Cisco would say nothing to-day and the assignee stated an inventory of assets would be made and a statement issued. Mr Dospasson, counsel for the firm, said he believed the assets would equal the liabilities dollar for dollar.

NEW YORK, Jan 16.—Up to a late hour this afternoon there were no failures growing out of the Cisco suspension. The accepted reason for Cisco's assignment now is that the daughters of the late John J. Cisco insist upon having the estate liquidated, and withdrawing their funds from the concern. In view of the unsettled state of affairs generally, it was deemed best to make an assignment. The firm had $500,000 to its credit in bank, at the close of business yesterday.

PRESS COMMENT

NEW YORK, Jan 16.—The Sun says: "It is not probable that Cisco's failure will have wide effect. The failure is probably attributable to a strenuous endeavor to pay interest upon idle capital, in a period when capital must, perforce, remain idle, as well as to some recent exploits in the art of railroad wrecking on the part of a notorious financier. People who have watched the remarkable chain of disasters which has occurred within the last twelve months will note, in the fall of the Cisco firm, an addition to the list of well known houses which, upon passing into the management of a younger generation, have promptly undergone extinction."

The Times says: "A Wall street paper prophesied the failure a week ago. For doing so the sale of it was stopped at elevated railway stations, on the ground that it was circulating false rumors. Cyrus W. Field was stated last night to have abandoned his intention of bringing suit against the editor on account of assaults of the paper on him. After its exclusion from the elevated railways the Wall Street Express denounced the prophecy as a malicious invention. The Wall street paper referred to these prophecies as a continuation of similar disasters, and that this is only the beginning of tremendous liquidation."

The Herald says: "Circumstances connected with the failure of Cisco forbid the expectation of so much as a flurry in business circles. The bankers were really isolated and no large houses will be dragged down in their failure." The Herald also thinks the Oliver Brothers failure is unimportant.

Other Failures

NEW ORLEANS, Jan 16.—Martin Del Escalal, tobacco merchant and manufacturer, has failed. Liabilities $224,000; assets, $200,000.

THE WEEK'S FAILURES

NEW YORK, Jan 16.—Failures the last seven days number 420, as compared with 451 the previous week.

THE BRAKEMEN'S STRIKE

The Company Still Unable to Move a Freight Train

FORT WAYNE, Jan 16.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon a hard unsuccessful attempt was made by the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railway officials to move freight trains blockaded here by reason of the brakemen's strike against the "double header" system of running trains. Superintendent Law, together with Master Engineer Polhamus, attempted to take an engine from the roundhouse, to attach to a freight train they wished to send east. The strikers allowed them to take the engine and run it outside the roundhouse, when one of several strikers upon the engine took hold of the whistle and blew it vigorously. This signal for aid was responded to by other strikers scattered in and around the yards of the company, guarding switches, etc. They compelled Mr Polhamus, who had hold of the throttle of the engine, to give place to a striker while others assisted Polhamus to dismount. The engine was returned to the round house and her fires drawn.

An associated press reporter called upon strikers this afternoon, and interviewed their leader at their headquarters, in car 60. He said: "We are peaceable men, who desire to destroy no property or to harm any one, but we will not allow any double-header to leave Fort Wayne on any circumstances. If we submit to double-headers it throws many men who have families dependent on them out of work, and those who do work cannot live upon the wages they can earn. Business is light, and brakemen, under the double header system, cannot make more than one round-trip per week, which would make his pay $4 80 per week. In an hour I can call to my aid 1400 men. I don't think an attempt will be made to use force in starting double headers. We have received many offers of pecuniary aid, but have declined them so far."

Late this afternoon Mayor Zollinger issued a proclamation, calling upon the striking brakemen to cease interfering with the railroad company's movement of trains, and warning all persons who had no legal right upon the grounds of the railroad company to leave them, quoting the penalty for interfering with a railroad company in its business, etc. Just what effect this proclamation will have upon the strikers remains to be seen. Railroad officials say this evening they have nothing to say, further than that the situation remains unchanged.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

MURDERED BY HIS WIFE

UTICA, N. Y., Jan 16.—William Druse, a farmer of moderate circumstances, living in the town of Warren, Herkimer county, has been missing a month. Suspicions of murder were aroused, caused by quarrels between himself and wife. For several days it was rumored that Druse had been murdered by his wife, and his body cut and burned, and the bones put into a swamp. An ax owned by Druse was found in Wetherbee's pond Saturday, rolled in paper. A nephew of Mrs Druse, named Gates, aged 18, has been "squeezed" by the neighbors. He confessed that Mrs. Druse shot her husband and put a rope around his neck and compelled him to shoot also. They burned the body and burned the bones. The odor of burning flesh was noticed, December 18. Mrs. Druse and Gates are under arrest.

UTICA, N. Y., Jan 16.—The district attorney and the coroner are conducting an examination into the murder of William Druse, the farmer murdered by his wife, in the town of Warren, four miles from Richfield Springs. Frank Gates, aged 14, nephew of Druse, living in the family has made an artless confession, showing that the crime was committed December 10, and that Mrs Druse compelled him to shoot her husband a second time, and her to dispose of the body. They boiled it, and fed the flesh to the hogs, and burned the bones to ashes, which were buried in a swamp. The boy says the woman cut her husband's head off, and put it first in a stove. The boy acted as fireman, and had a terrible time to destroy the evidences of the crime. Neighbors, who noticed the unusual smoke and odor, were refused admittance, and papers were kept over the window. Since then the house has been repapered.

A BAD REPORT FROM NEW ORLEANS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 16.—The Chronicle's New Orleans special says: When Albert Mebele, an exhibitor in the German section of the main exposition building, came down this morning, he discovered that his show cases had been robbed of nearly all their contents, valued at $1000. The affair is only another outcome of the unfortunate financial management. Captain Farre was originally hired to place 250 men on the grounds, as patrolmen and detectives. When, a fortnight ago, it became apparent that the management could not sustain this expense, the force was cut down to 120 men, the number now doing duty. One of the heads of the departments is responsible for the statement that a number of slips of paper were picked up early this morning, on the floor of the main building, bearing this inscription: "Men, collect your wages or burn the building." This official claims to have found one of these slips himself, and to have seen five others.

NEGRO MURDERER HANGED

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill, Jan 16.—William Felix Henry, colored, was hanged here to-day for the murder of Henry Ross and Henry Depugh, both colored. Ross and Depugh, single men, were found murdered in their house at Rockyfort, about six miles from Alton, in March, 1883. The crime was traced to Henry, who was arrested and convicted, and afterwards confessed the deed.

POLITICAL POINTS.

A LIVELY CONTEST IN ILLINOIS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill, Jan 16.—After a fourteen hour session the house found itself still filibustering on the question of notifying the senate that regular organization had been effected. During the evening Haines, who was still occupying the chair, directed the doorkeeper and assistants to seat themselves beside him at the speaker's stand, as a precaution against any forcible attempt to remove him from the position he occupied. Later, when Fuller made the first demand for the previous question, and Haines declared him out of order, the republicans rose en masse and loudly objected. Democrats also arose, and a scene of indescribable confusion ensued. Yemfiers rushed to the speaker's stand, shouting and gesticulating. Crofts succeeded in getting a few to listen to him and then made the fact understood that the noise was driving one of the sick members in the corridors delirious. Comparative quiet ensued, and filibustering commenced.

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 17.—At 3 A. M. the house adjourned until Monday afternoon. Adjournment was secured under an agreement that when the house reconvenes the motion having precedence shall be Fuller's appeal from the chair's decision.

A CLEAR FIELD FOR EVARTS.

ALBANY, Jan 16.—At noon Hon. George B. Sloan and Mr Royal B. Stearns announced Russel's withdrawal from the senatorial contest, in favor of Evarts. Since the announcement of the withdrawal of Russel from the senatorial contest the friends of Minister Morton have cabled him, advising that he also withdraw. This would leave Evarts a clear field.

ASTORIA, [illegible] court composed of P. [illegible] [illegible] Captain Semler, of [illegible] and Captain Olsen, of the [illegible] concluded the inquiry to-day on the [illegible] Cowper. Several witnesses were [illegible] them Captain Gregory of [illegible] George Wood, Captain A[illegible] of the crew of the Abbey [illegible] are substantially as fo[illegible]

After due [illegible] court finds that the b[illegible] was lost on the outer sands [illegible] Shoalwater bay, on the 4th [illegible] evidence shows that at [illegible] ship was about eight miles [illegible] north from Foke Point light, and not fifteen miles as was supposed by the master, and to this error can be attributed the primary cause of the loss of the vessel.

The court finds that the master, not knowing he was coming to the northwest coast of America, is not to blame for not having provided charts of the coast, and that he used his best endeavors to procure the same, after receiving orders to proceed to Portland, Oregon. That the facts of the current shoreward and strong suck of Shoalwater bay being not known to the master, exonerates him in a great measure.

WHERE THE MASTER ERRED

On the other hand, the master is strongly to blame, in not heaving the lead so near shore, or giving orders to the officer on watch to do so, when he left the deck.

That First Officer Bevan, being left in charge of the deck, is to be censured for not notifying the captain of the difference in the bearings, and that he should himself have put the helm hard up before going below to tell the captain.

The court finds that from the moment the helm was put hard up everything was done that could be done to save the ship.

The court, therefore, on returning the master's certificate, does so with a strong censure of his neglect, in not heaving the lead when approaching a strange coast, and hopes he will take warning in the future.

Also, the court reprimands First Officer Bevan, in his want of self-confidence in not heaving the lead when he saw breakers ahead, and at once taking measures to pull the vessel on the other tack. Bevan's certificate is returned, with this caution, that only his youth and general inexperience leads this court to deal thus leniently with him.

The court takes pleasure in returning the second mate's certificate.

CALIFORNIA

WRIGHT LEROY HANGED

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 16.—Wright Leroy was hanged to-day at 12:30. On August 13, 1883, he decoyed Nicholas Skerrett, an aged capitalist whom he had personally known for a long time, into one of Skerrett's empty houses on a plea that he wanted to rent it. While inside he told Skerrett he would kill him unless he gave him a check for a large sum. Skerrett refused and Leroy then knocked him down, seized him by the throat, and while continuing his threats choked him to death. He observed a firm demeanor on the scaffold and asserted his innocence to the last. His neck was broken in the fall.

THE SHARON DIVORCE CASE

Hearing of the application for alimony and counsel fees in the Sharon divorce case, was continued before Judge Sullivan to-day. A large crowd of people were in attendance. A number of affidavits by counsel of both sides and others, were read. Several of them were very contradictory on important points. Affidavits in connection with the Tyler-Gumpel [illegible] contract were also read. General Barnes and Detective Lees told how the document had come into their possession, and for which Barnes had paid $25,000.

Ex Senator Stewart, of counsel for defense, made a motion that the $25,000 paid by General Barnes to McLaughlin, Tyler's clerk, be lodged in court, and that all further proceedings be stayed until the same be done. No action was taken on the motion. Further hearing in the case for alimony was continued for one week.

WHEAT AND FLOUR ON HAND

An official statement of the produce exchange shows that on January 1 this year there were 516,000 tons of wheat and flour remaining in the state, against only 355,000 tons the same date last year.

THE LEGISLATURE

SACRAMENTO, Jan 16.—The senate organized on the third ballot this afternoon, thirteen republicans voting with the democrats for Knight, who is elected president pro tem. Six senators were absent and paired.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE

Arrived: Steamer San Pedro, Tacoma. Sailed: Bark Aureola, Tacoma.

STATE DISPATCHES

AN ASTORIAN INJURED

ASTORIA, Jan 16.—J. C. Ross, county coroner, while attending to the receipt of freight to-day, on the O R & N Co's dock, had a heavy case of goods fall on him, breaking his leg.

UTAH

SMELTER BURNED

SALT LAKE, Jan 16.—The Hanauer smelter, seven miles south of this city, was burned to-night, by the upsetting of a slag pot, and entirely destroyed. Loss, $25,000, no insurance.

ENGLAND

DISASTER FEARED

LONDON, Jan 16.—Grave fears are entertained for the safety of the packet steamer Admiral Morrison, plying between Dublin and Holyhead, now 18 hours overdue at the latter port, where there was a severe storm last night, and it is feared she has been lost. The Dublin agent of the line telegraphs that the Admiral Morrison has but a few passengers.

LONDON, Jan 16.—Up to a late hour to-night no tidings have been received of the channel packet boat Admiral Morrison, plying between Dublin and Holyhead, and due at the latter port yesterday. Offices of the company at Holyhead, London and Dublin are besieged by people anxious for friends and relatives believed to be on board.

YATES ACCEPTS HIS SENTENCE

LONDON, Jan 16.—Edmund Yates, editor of the World, is apparently doomed to undergo the four months imprisonment to which he was sentenced for libelling Lord Lonsdale. The court of appeal to-day dismissed his appeal against the sentence.

LONDON, Jan 16.—Yates has decided to abandon the proposition of his counsel to further appeal his case to the house of lords. After the court pronounced its decision, Yates surrendered to the officers, and was removed from the court room and placed in custody. In serving out his sentence he will rank as a first-class prisoner.

STORM AT NICE

LONDON, Jan 16.—A severe storm is raging at Nice. The sea has overflowed the Midland quay, and the Anglaise promenade, and cellars, hotels and even villas are flooded.

FRANCE

DEATH OF A DUELIST

PARIS, Jan 16.—Norbert Ballerich, the man who was wounded in three places by M Ducay, editor of the Cri du Peuple, the other night, died at the hospital to-day.

SPAIN

THE EARTHQUAKE DISASTER

MADRID, Jan 16.—King Alfonso has arrived at Malaga. Fresh shocks of earthquake occurred to-day in Granada, causing slight damage.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Jan. 16.—A large public meeting of unemployed workmen is called for Tuesday night, when addresses will be made by leading merchants on the situation. It is thought by careful calculation that nearly 6000 men are idle in the city and suburbs. In Redpath's sugar refinery about 100 men are employed out of 300, and all mill factories are running with 200 or 300 men less than usual. It is reported that the bank of Montreal has arranged a combination of cotton manufacturers, and that an advance of 10 per cent will be lasting. An advance in price is at once anticipated of about 10 per cent.

EUROPEAN POLITICS

THE CONGO CONFERENCE

BERLIN, Jan 16.—The commission of the West African conference continued to-day discussion of conditions necessary to make future annexation of the coast of Africa effective. English and Italian delegates presented amendments. England demanded that the conditions be extended to include annexation of inland territory. The English representatives objected to the working of several portions of the original German project. England's objections arise from fears that if she hastily agreed to new proposals it may lead to complications in view of her extensive colonial interests. The [illegible] was referred to a special committee.

GERMANY

THE PROPOSED TARIFF CHANGES

BERLIN, Jan 16.—Among the proposed changes in the German customs tariff the following duties will be imposed: Cotton twist, 18 to 1[illegible] marks; wheat, [illegible] marks; maize, 50 pfennings; jute twist and manila hemp, uncolored and unpressed, 5 to 10 marks; colored and pressed, 10 to 20 marks; dressed yarn and sewing thread 70 marks; cords and ropes 10 marks; salted fish, in barrels, 3 marks; fish otherwise prepared, 12 marks; fish in hermetically sealed cans, 60 marks; oil in casks, 4 marks; palm oil and cocoanut oil, 2 marks; hog's lard and fatty substance of the nature of lard, 10 marks.

NOTABLE DEAD

THE GOVERNOR OF WYOMING

CHEYENNE, Jan 16.—William Hale, late governor of Wyoming, was buried here to-day, under the auspices of the Knights Templar. The weather was very cold, but there was a large attendance of local, civic and military societies. Eight companies of United States soldiers attended from Fort Russell.

DEATH OF A MIDGET

SYRACUSE, Jan 16.—Mrs Frank Robert, the midget on whom the Cæsarian operation was performed Wednesday, died this afternoon.

NEW YORK TENEMENT HOUSES

NEW YORK, Jan 16.—The commission to inspect city tenement houses appointed by the legislature at its last session, have submitted their report, which, it is said, contains extraordinary revelations of the condition of human life and society in New York, almost justifying the recent declaration of the American Church Review, that New York at this moment is a social volcano, liable at any time to eruption, cursed, as it is, by the most dismal poverty, vice and ignorance. Bishop Potter and other well-known and persistent workers have called a meeting of churchmen in his diocese Monday night to consider some of the pressing questions relating to tenement-house reform.

KANSAS NOTES

CALDWELL, Ks, Jan 16.—General Hatch, who left here Sunday morning for the boomer camp, on the Stillwater, is with his troops. It has been so stormy since that no news has been received from him yet. A courier is expected to-morrow.

The storm of Wednesday and Thursday was quite severe on range stock. The weather now has moderated, and the storm is over.

NORTH CAROLINA NOTES.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan 16.—Senator Z. B. Vance was renominated to-day by the democratic caucus by acclamation.

At a special election of congressman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Scales, scattering returns indicate the election of Reed.

NOTES FROM SEATTLE.

SEATTLE, Jan 15.

[illegible] Howard, superintendent of the Oregon Improvement Company, arrived in town to-day.

Richard Doyle was pronounced insane yesterday by Probate Judge W. D. Wood, and he was accordingly taken to the asylum for insane at Steilacoom.

The local amateur opera company presented the "Pirates of Penzance" last evening for the fourth time. They had a good house and the performance was given in an excellent manner.

Louise Humphrey Smith, the elocutionist, who has been snowbound here for several weeks, has gone to Portland. She gave several successful entertainments, and has become a favorite with our people.

The printing material for the new paper to be known as the Fulton was attached as it was landed on the wharf. It had come consigned to Oscar Dunbar and was attached by one of his creditors, the St. Charles hotel.

The reported rise in the price of logs and lumber has put upon the faces of our merchants smiles that bear closer relation to hope and cheer than any that have greeted your correspondent for the past four months.

The ladies held a large meeting to take in hand the bettering of Washington's exhibit at New Orleans. Several committees were appointed, and no doubt our part in the great exposition will be made more as it should be by the energetic ladies of Seattle.

The steamer Mexico arrived Tuesday evening from San Francisco. Among the passengers was Wm. H. Llewellyn, of the firm of Eshleman, Llewellyn & Co. of this city. He has been east several months extensively advertising Seattle, and his firm in particular.

Professor O. B. Johnson of the University of Washington found and forwarded to W. G. Binney, America's great specialist of terrestial mollusks specimens of Vitrina hyperborea. Mr. Binney immediately wrote that he would like more specimens, and that it was indeed interesting to learn that this species was found so far below Alaska, where alone it was heretofore known.

Miss Lelia J. Robinson, the lawyer, left yesterday morning for her former home in Boston. She expects to return shortly bringing her mother and family. Miss Robinson has earned the respect with which she is regarded in this community, and it is with pleasure that the announcement is received that she will make this more completely her home.

An effort is being made to remove the city library, which has been in the keeping of the university for the past four years, to the custody of the Young Men's Christian Association, which had possession of it previous to the time it went into the keeping of the university. The university people want to retain it, but there is no telling how the members of the library association will vote.

We are to have a new postoffice. The bids have been sent to Washington some time ago and an answer is expected soon. The old building used so long for this purpose is about worn out, besides being too small. The bids were: Mr. Frye, offering a fine large room in his new Opera block, which is distant about five blocks from the present location, and from Mr. John Collins, offering a magnificent room in the new Occidental block. In case either proposition is accepted the citizens will enjoy the comforts of a commodious and well equipped postoffice.

The greatest society event of the season was the marriage last Sunday of Fred Bories and Miss Ella Korn, both of this city. Mr. Bories is the son of Rev. H. Bories of Portland, where he is well and favorably known. The bride is a daughter of M. Korn of the firm of Schramm & Co. of this city. Most elaborate preparations were made for the ceremony, which was celebrated at the bride's home. At 4 P. M. the reception of their numerous friends commenced, but it did not end till a late hour. The wedding feast was as elaborate as could be desired. A very long list of elegant and valuable gifts were presented to the young people who should justly feel proud of so many and such handsome testimonials from their friends and relatives. Relatives of both parties were in attendance from Portland, Tacoma and San Francisco.

[illegible] Aaron [illegible] Moses

Let us cut off our noses.

Aaron must have been a sufferer from catarrh. The desperation which catarrh produces is often sufficient to make people say and do many rash things, and many continue suffering just as if no such cure as Dr Sage's Catarrh Remedy existed. It cures every case from the simplest to the most complicated, and all the consequences of catarrh. A person once cured by Dr Sage's Catarrh Remedy will not be apt to take cold again, as it leaves the mucous membranes healthy and strong. By druggists.

The Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 17, 1885

CITY AND COUNTY.

Chauncey M. Depew of New York gave his [illegible] Irish [illegible] the mayor of our city a Vermonter, [illegible] government and [illegible] Yankees [illegible]

It is not long since a writer in the New York [illegible] said that the great men now in that city came either from the country, from New England or from foreign lands. The city itself [illegible] nothing noteworthy in the way of art, science, intellect or statesmanship. No native New Yorker was ever elected president or vice president, no one except Hamilton [illegible] ever sat in the cabinet [illegible] the bench of the supreme court [illegible] the city has been for fifty years represented by men born and generally [illegible] outside the city. The [illegible] statesmen, legislators or jurists. Even the leading commercial men and financial kings are carpet-baggers. "All the prominent editors and newspaper proprietors are either of New England or foreign parentage," with one or two exceptions. The post masters and collectors, and latterly the mayors are imported. Nearly all the great lawyers are of outside birth and culture. All the city judges are of foreign stock. A few years ago no native-born New Yorker was a member of the national or state government. The city officials have been mostly foreign born or natives of other places [illegible] this country. All the political leaders and bosses [illegible] writers of wide fame have been born in the city for half a century. No sweet singer since Halleck, who was by no means a magnate. Bryant was an outsider, and even the small buzzers residing in the city, who figure as poets in magazines and an occasional volume, will be found to be nearly all New Englanders."

If it were not for the constant infusion of new blood from the country the large cities would soon fall into stagnation and decay. The great schemes in which the rich men in the cities are engaged do not admit of participation in them by their sons, like the business of farmers and small mechanics in the country, and hence the sons of rich men are deprived of the opportunity to engage in any healthful and stimulating employment. It is not always that they feel above work, as is often falsely asserted, but in the order of things there is nothing for them to do, and hence they lead listless and idle lives. Farmers boys who are sometimes inclined to complain of their hard and narrow lot should be sustained by this, and thank fortune that they live where they have an opportunity, by industry and perseverance, to make something of themselves. There is a consolation for hard times also in the fact that the great men in the cities come, as a rule, not only from the country, but from families of small means. A minister who was once urging a wealthy man to make a large contribution to some benevolent society had the frankness to tell the man that if he gave away half his money he would still have enough left to ruin his children. There is a great deal of truth in this minister's remark. It is what the boy is in himself, not in the circumstances of his birth or worldly condition that makes him a great and successful man. The true grandeur of this country springs not from its rural poverty, but from its rural thrift—from scenes such as are described by Burns in Cotter's Saturday Night, the pious homes where boys and girls are trained in industry, self reliance and unselfishness.

The state of Massachusetts has lately established a reformatory for male convicts. It is founded upon the theory that by separating criminals, of whose reformation and restoration to reputable membership in society there is good ground of hope, from those who have become hardened in crime and who have become hopelessly outcast from society, pursuing, when at liberty, crime, from deliberate choice and as a profession, such reformation can be accomplished. There has been a large proportion of the inmates of the state prison who were in confinement for a first offense, or who have, under the influence of some momentary passion, committed some crime of which they would ordinarily have been incapable. It has been held by many to be desirable to keep this class separate from the other of which we have spoken, and it has been believed that under proper influences the punishment which is inflicted by imprisonment as the penalty of the law may at the same time work radical and complete reformation of character. The establishment of the reformatory also provides that boys over fifteen years of age who have heretofore been sent to the reform school, as well as persons convicted of offenses punishable by imprisonment in the jail, house of correction and house of industry, may be remitted to the reformatory for terms of not less than one year. The theory is certainly an excellent one, and it is to be hoped that it will work well in practice.

The New York Sun contrasts the letter of William M. Evarts announcing that he is a candidate for the United States senate with the published utterances of Hon. Joseph M. Shumate of Texas. Mr. Shumate is a distinguished citizen of Round Rock, and proprietor of a newspaper named the Quid Nunc, for the purpose of showing that the Texas editor uses a better English style than the New York lawyer. The course of the Quid Nunc respecting prohibition having been criticised, Shumate prints this card:

> I wish it distinctly understood that the Quid Nunc [illegible] whisky [illegible] Anything [illegible] to the [illegible] is falsehood. JOE M. SHUMATE.

On the other hand Mr. Evarts uses four hundred and eight words to say what the Texan would undoubtedly say in thirty-four:

> I want to be senator [illegible]

In these thirty four words the idea is clearly expressed, but the Sun is inconsistent with itself in declaring they are of a grand English style. Brevity is the soul of wit but it is also often the poverty of thought, and sometimes it is the sign of mental indolence. In attempting to satirize the style of Mr. Evarts the Sun reduces the matter to almost as great an absurdity as the renowned Jack Hole did the reformed spelling of English by writing his name with the letter J and punching a hole through the paper.

The hopelessness of getting any measure of real relief from the evil system of our present tax laws, will be apparent to every one who attends to the current discussion of the subject and notes the infinite variety of irreconcilable opinion in regard to it. Every person has some little incidental notion which he persuades himself is the main question involved and this he wants to press as the most important thing, utterly forgetting the few simple but leading principles involved. What is really wanted for relief of the country is repeal of the usury law, abandonment of the effort to tax credits, repeal of the law that allows deduction of indebtedness, taxation of tangible or actual property only and the appraisement of all such property for taxation at its proper and true value. Nothing less than this will give actual relief and if these are not secured we shall wallow entirely in the same old slough of despond.

Iowa republicans are on the road with the issues upon which they propose to fight the political battles of the future and from which they do not propose to be diverted by the old issues [illegible]. Circulars have been sent to the [illegible] throughout the state, asking their opinions as to the course the party should [illegible] in view of democratic attempts to divide the republican party on the question of prohibition, while the solid south is securing and enjoying the fruits of its recent victory and intrenching itself in power. The circular in question wisely says: "The late election has demonstrated the fact that if we stand together as republicans, we can surely conquer. We recognize the fact that the democratic party, in the coming campaign, will leave no effort untried to divide our party and whip us in detail. Unless we determine to stand shoulder to shoulder we are already beaten. In Iowa the democracy will endeavor to push the question of prohibition that it may divert the attention of the people from its attempt to southernize the north, and intrench itself in power for a long series of years."

A RAILROAD COMMISSION.

A bill has been introduced in the senate by Mr. Miller to provide for the election by the legislature of a board of three railroad commissioners, one of whom shall be a republican, one a democrat and one [illegible] who shall appoint a clerk, and each give bonds in the sum of $10,000 for the faithful performance of their duty.

Their general office shall be at Salem, where they shall meet at least once a month, but they may if necessary have a branch office in Portland. Any two of the commissioners shall constitute a quorum, and one alone may make investigations to be approved by the board. They shall have a general supervision of all railroads doing business in the state, and keep themselves informed as to the condition of the roads and the manner in which they are operated with reference to the security and accommodation of the public, investigate the causes of accidents resulting in loss of life or injury to person or property, and have power to examine the books and affairs of railroads for the purposes intended by their office. Each railroad is required to furnish the board a full and minute statement of amount and names of the owners of their capital stock and a full description of the property, amount of business, earnings, expenses, rate of fare and freight charges, and amount of land originally granted, amount sold and remaining unsold. In order to obtain this knowledge the board shall have power to examine the officers under oath. Whenever it shall appear to the board that any repairs are needed on any railroad, or any additional facilities for the accommodation of the public are required, or that any change in rate of passenger fare or freight charges, or any change in the manner of operating the road is reasonable or necessary for the public convenience a hearing is to be had, and if any change required by the board is not made the road shall forfeit to the state the sum of $5000 for each offence, and the person from whom any larger rates are taken than those established by the board may recover back with costs. For the willful neglect to furnish information or refusal to obey the process of subpena issued by the board, a fine is imposed, and it is made the duty of the prosecuting attorney in every judicial district in the state to prosecute, by direction of the commissioners, any violation of the provisions of this act. At each session of the legislature the commissioners are to submit a biennial report with suggestions and information concerning the general railroad policy of the state and the conduct of railway affairs, and draft such bills as will in their judgment promote the public good. They are empowered to enter in their official capacity during business hours the offices and cars of any road and remain in them, but are forbidden to receive any pass or other gratuity for themselves or other persons from any railroad, under penalty of fine and imprisonment. Nothing done by the commissioners shall have the effect in any manner to impair the obligations of any railroad corporation, or its legal liability for the consequences of its acts. This act is declared to be "necessary to protect the business, agricultural and commercial interests of the state and to promote the general welfare," and therefore it shall "take effect and be in force from and after its approval by the governor."

While this act seems to us unnecessarily encumbered with details and excessively stringent in some of its requirements and penalties for neglect or disobedience, the general scope and purpose of it are correct. The success of the Massachusetts commission, to which frequent reference has been made, does not depend upon the stringency of its provisions or penalties, but upon the publicity which it gives to all causes of complaints and all demands of the public upon the railroad companies. The Massachusetts commission in fact has no power over the railroads, except such as it exercises as the organ of public intelligence and opinion, but, as Senator Hoar has just said, its results have been marvelous. It has extensive powers of supervision, inquiry and recommendation, which not by the enforcement of penal statutes so much as by the influence of discretionary authority, induce compliance on the part of the railroads with the spirit as well as the letter of equitable regulations. Such a railway commission should exist in every state, and we trust that our legislature will provide one for this state.

KELLY'S COLLAPSE.

The sale of the New York Star, John Kelly's paper, probably marks his final disappearance as a political boss and it is doubtful if New York is ever again afflicted with a boss who will be his equal in ability and power. He was never personally corrupt, though he arranged "good things for the boys." He was never charged with stealing, but he enabled others to steal with great freedom. He had undoubted ability as an organizer, but his power rested mainly upon his standing as a good Catholic. Connected by marriage with the very head of the church in this country, he was able to command that blind obedience of his followers which exists only within the pale of the church. He cultivated this power with great assiduity. He had a lecture upon some topic of church interest which he delivered in aid of all kinds of the church's charities, and he posed everywhere as a devout Catholic.

With all these resources he might have done much good. When he succeeded Boss Tweed as the leader of Tammany he had a better chance to distinguish himself than any other local politician of the last generation. The Tammany society had just been rescued from the most audacious band of political thieves ever known. He himself was recognized as an honest man and by leading his organization into ways of honesty he might have given the city a good municipal government. But Mr. Kelly chose to take the little rewards which would come to him as a boss rather than the great ones incident to leadership. Accordingly in a few years Tammany, which had had a great opportunity for good, was the scourge of New York politics. Under Kelly's domination it became the mere instrument for the distribution of petty offices, arrayed itself on the side of every abuse and of potentiality, and became the enemy of every man who sought to root any of them out or to substitute good methods for bad ones, and was the rallying point for disgraceful burglaring. Such a policy could in the long run reach no other result than the collapse of its author. Having never appealed to public spirit or the unselfish interest of good men in politics for support he attached to himself only the selfish element who engage in politics simply for the spoils and when he had no patronage to dispense his occupation was gone. He may have prevented some worse things than he ever directly accomplished, but he was essentially a conspirator, and his downfall is an occasion for congratulation and hope with all the friends of good government.

BILLS READ.

No. 19—By Ready, providing for the election of a prosecuting attorney in each county of the state, and prescribing their fees; first reading.

No. 20—By Ready, making it unlawful to charge for passage through the Oregon City locks more than 25 cents per ton and 10 cents for each passenger; first reading.

No. 21—By Cyrus, extending the official term of county commissioners to four years.

No. 22—By Cox, making the legal rate of interest 8 per cent., with privilege to contract at any rate agreeable to the parties; read the first time.

No. 23—By Story, to reorganize the state militia. It is modeled after the militia law of New York, and requires that companies must have 47 members before drawing public money. It does not provide for an increase of regiments.

No. 24—By Bourne, to protect pheasants and other game birds. This measure is designed to protect the breeds of birds brought from China by Judge O. N. Denny, for five years; first reading.

No. 25—By Leinenweber, fixing the rate for pilotage between Astoria and Portland, ascending or descending, at $5 per foot draft. Licensed pilots are required to pilot all vessels over 100 tons burden upon demand; first reading.

No. 26—By Bilyeu, to regulate the subpenaing of witnesses; first reading.

No. 27—By Roberts, providing for the payment of bounties for scalps of noxious wild animals by the state; first reading.

No. 28—By Veatch, providing for registration of voters, and to prevent fraud at elections; first reading.

No. 29—By Cox, making minor changes in the conduct of state normal schools; read twice and referred to the committee on education.

No. 30—By Bourne, providing for the incorporation of religious, social, literary and other societies; first reading.

No. 31—By Leinenweber, increasing the yearly salaries of supreme judges to $3500; first reading.

No. 32—By Roberts, to prevent the running at large of bulls and boars; first reading.

At 12 the house adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock Monday.

THE DAY'S WORK.

Members Take Advantage of an Early Adjournment by Visiting their Homes.

SALEM, Jan. 16.—A good deal of business was put through during the forenoon to-day, and at 12 o'clock both houses adjourned till Monday at 2. About half the members and most all the lobbyists and loungers departed by the afternoon trains, and to-night the Chemeketa lobby is almost deserted.

The important feature of the day's session was the committee organization of the house. The assignment, as a whole, was admirable. All sections and interests are fairly represented, and I hear scarcely a word of criticism from any source. Multnomah, which has been sadly under the ban, has representation on all the important committees, and two or three very important chairmanships. In his committee arrangement, the speaker has done an important duty well.

Ex-Governor Whiteaker, who is perhaps the man of most party consideration of all democrats in the state, has been here the past two days and it is said that he has counseled the democratic members to take a high stand, and not abandon themselves to tricky methods for small advantages. Such a course he thinks will hurt the party spirit and organization.

The senate passed its first bill to-day, to incorporate the city of Dallas. The house has not yet put any measure beyond its second reading. The files of the senate clerk are now clear of bills, but in the house there are about twenty five bills not yet past their first reading.

IDAHO.

A shooting affray occurred at Albion Thursday, 10, between [illegible], a criminal and Charles Butterfield, deputy sheriff of Oneida county. Pleasants had been placed in charge of Butterfield, and searched by Sheriff Stokes. Butterfield stood guard over Pleasants with a double-barreled shotgun while Stokes went away to make some preparation about the jail to put Pleasants in and lock him up for the night. Pleasants appeared to be perfectly quiet and showed no sign of making trouble, but pulled out a cigarette and match and commenced to light his match on his leg, but was in fact making an effort to get a pistol out of his boot leg, which Butterfield did not discover until the pistol was out. Both pointed their weapons at each other as quick as possible and fired almost instantaneously, the pistol a second or so first, the ball striking the abdomen of Butterfield and passing through his body. Butterfield's double-barreled shotgun was loaded with buck shot, which struck Pleasants in the head, blowing his head nearly to pieces and killing him instantly. Butterfield also died soon after.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

OREGON.

Custer Post band of McMinnville has been reorganized.

An athletic association has been organized in Albany.

C. W. Powell has been appointed postmaster at Dayton.

It will cost Lane county about $2000 to repair the Sanderson bridge.

The bridges on the Oregon Pacific injured by the high water and snow will probably be in a passable condition by the middle of next week, also tunnel No. 1, which caved from the outside at the west end recently, the damage to which will be repaired by a small outlay. Trains will be running as soon as those repairs are completed.

Mrs. Sarah Buell, aged 83 years, died at Sheridan last week. She was born in Maryland and came to Oregon in 1847 with her husband, and settled in Polk county, where they ever afterward lived. She had ten children, eight girls and two boys, five of whom, four girls and one boy, Cyrus Buell, are still living.

News has been received of the shooting of an Indian at Warner's valley, Grant county, Oregon, by a white man, name unknown. It appears that two white men and a half breed got drunk and went to an Indian camp, and in a row which ensued an old Indian was shot and mortally wounded. The citizens at Warner have sent to Fort Bidwell for troops, as there are a large number of Indians hunting in that vicinity, and it is feared retaliatory measures will be resorted to by them. Great indignation is felt at Warner, for should an outbreak occur many innocent lives might be sacrificed and a vast amount of property destroyed.

WASHINGTON.

Mr. Phillips was elected mayor of Olympia Monday last.

The lower ferry across the Nesqually river is again in working order.

The hoisting machinery for the Black Diamond coal mine at Seattle has been received.

A starch factory is to be established in Tacoma, to manufacture that commodity from potatoes. The factory will have a capacity of at least 100 bushels per day, and expects to use this season 20,000 bushels.

Mr. M. G. Bovee has discovered what he considers a good vein of coal on the prairie about twelve miles from Tacoma, on the road to Hillhurst. It is located on government land and Mr. Bovee has filed on the same as coal land.

A bunch of fourteen cattle were drowned in the river about three miles below Wawawai during the recent cold weather. They took fright at some Indian ponies that were packed with beef, ran out on the ice, and breaking through, perished.

Owing to a land slide which occurred Saturday afternoon in central Seattle, a considerable amount of the main pipe of the Spring Hill Water Company was broken, necessitating the turning off of the water until the pipe could be relaid. This has been done. Some 450 feet of pipe was relaid.

William A. Alvey, son of S. B. Alvey of Pierce county, employed on the Cascade division of the Northern Pacific railroad in Yakima county, was sent out to flag a train one night lately when the thermometer registered 34 deg. below zero, and had his feet badly frozen. It was necessary to amputate one foot back of the toes, which operation was performed by Dr. William A. Newell and his son, assisted by Dr. Simmons.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The Canadian Pacific has reached [illegible] creek, six miles west of the first crossing of the Columbia.

OVERLAND PASSENGERS

Passed Medford yesterday to arrive in this city to-day: G. E. Beach, San Francisco.

TO THE PUBLIC.

We, the foremen and members of Mr. Hanson's snow-shoveling brigade in the late blockade, desire to return thanks to our employers and overseers for their uniform kindness, and attention paid to our wants during the terrible ordeal. But there is one in particular, although in no way connected with us, to whom we must ever feel under obligations beyond our power to repay; one on whom the impress of nature has stamped the character of the nobleman, and who in the most comprehensive sense, who forgetting his own personal comfort, exposed himself both night and day to the storm's keenest blast and left nothing undone that lay in his power to alleviate our distress. Yes, to the great big-hearted H. D. Sanborn we tender our most heartfelt thanks, and we assure him that so long as the remembrance of the fierce storms, the mountains and snow drifts of the Cascade mountain blockade remain—with them will be associated in happy contrast the memory of H. D. Sanborn.

An OREGONIAN representative who happened into Selmeyer's Merchant Tailoring parlors yesterday had the satisfaction of overhearing the conversation of two professional gentlemen—members of the Grismer troupe—who were just taking away their dress suits made by that gentleman. They expressed themselves as exceedingly well pleased with fit and finish of the clothing, which is acceptable in style and quality than they have ever been able to get in the eastern cities. This speaks well for Mr. Selmeyer, who is well deserving of the compliment.

We call attention to Thompson, DeHart & Co's coal ad under New To-Day. This is a pure household coal and different from any coal which has hitherto been offered in this market, most of which has been steam coal, and not so well adapted for household use.

World's Fair, New Orleans.

Buy your tickets of Mr. Maxwell, Ash street dock, and see that they read via the famous ROYAL ROUTE, and travel over the shortest and finest equipped railway from St. Paul to the east or south. W. H. MEAD, Gen'l Ag't, No. 4 Washington st.

Salmon.

Fresh Salmon are now coming into market in plentiful quantities and at correspondingly low prices. Mr. A. Markey, corner Fourth and Morrison, will supply the trade or families on most favorable terms.

Just arrived at A. Robert's, 25 dozen English wool caps, also 150 overcoats, which will be sold at cost.

Northern Pacific, Oregon Short Line, and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R's.

Whichever transcontinental line you may travel over, have for its principal connection the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. It runs the finest dining and sleeping cars in the world. Emigrant passengers carried on express trains by this line. Union depots. H. MAXWELL, Ticket Agent O. R. & N. and all other lines, Ash street wharf. W. H. MARSHALL, General Agent, corner Ash and First streets, Portland, Or.

The Pacific Express Company.

This company is now prepared to transact a general express business at San Francisco, Portland and points on Short Line, and respectfully solicits a share of public patronage. It operates in twenty states and territories and has reliable connections to all parts of the United States and Europe. For rates and other information apply at Nos. 1 and 7 Washington street. J. E. BROWNING, Joint Ag't Pacific and Northern Pacific Express Companies.

New Orleans Exposition.

Persons who desire to travel to New Orleans and return cheaply, will please call at my office and be informed how to do so. W. H. MARSHALL, Gen'l Agent Chicago, Milwaukie and St. Paul Ry., 34 Front street, Portland, Or.

The Quaker Dairy.

For 50 years the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam of Cutler Bros. & Co., Boston, stands unrivaled for Coughs, Colds and consumption.

SIR ROBERT CHRISTISON, Physician to Her Majesty the Queen of England, speaking of the Coca plant, says: "The properties of this wonderful plant are the most wonderful of any known to the medical world. From repeated personal trials I am convinced that its use is highly beneficial and tonic." To build up a broken down system use the Liebig Co's Coca Beef Tonic, indorsed, recommended by the foremost physicians of Europe and America. Overwrought and feeble nerves are quieted, digestion is promoted, and new life and vigor in all of the organs of the body follows its use.

THE VIENNA COFFEE HOUSE, Washington street, east of ... Oysters in every style.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

GOVERNMENT RED TAPE.—The Washington special published yesterday morning in regard to the returns from the electoral college of this state was slightly inaccurate and placed the responsibility for the mishap on the wrong persons. The facts are as follows: The copy of the returns to be sent by mail was sealed and directed to "The President of the United States senate, Washington." A postoffice clerk in glancing over the direction did not notice the word "senate," and put the package in the mail for "The President of the United States." It was opened by one of his secretaries, who, seeing the mistake he had made, handed the package to President Arthur, who at once sent it to Vice-President Edmunds, with a note explaining the mistake. Now the law requires that the envelope must be opened in presence of both houses of congress. Vice-President Edmunds consulted with Senators Dolph and Slater in regard to the matter and it was concluded that there was plenty of time to send the returns back here and have them properly sealed and sent on again to Washington. The document was mailed at once and Hon. D. P. Thompson notified by telegraph of the fact. Hon. Warren Truitt, who had been chosen a special messenger to carry one copy of the returns to Washington as required by law, remained here two weeks awaiting the arrival of the packet mailed, but it was detained in the blockade on the Short Line and he was obliged to leave before its arrival in order to get to Washington in time with his copy. The package arrived here and was resealed and re-addressed and re-sent off again on Wednesday, and will doubtless be re-ceived and re-opened and re-ad at the proper time and place.

NOT GUILTY OF MURDER.—At the conclusion of the argument in the case of the United States vs. Barnhart, yesterday, the court adjourned till 7 P. M., at which time Judge Deady delivered his charge to the jury. He spoke for about half an hour, and passed in review every circumstance in the case, the credibility of the various witnesses and weight to which their testimony was entitled. It was admitted that the deceased came to his death by being willfully shot by either Barnhart or Anderson, but it was claimed that the shooting was lawful, as being done in self-defense. The killing was done by one or the other of the parties. Anderson was not on trial, and in regard to the liability of the parties for each other's acts, the learned judge said: "If the shooting of the Indian was the result of a common purpose formed between Barnhart and Anderson, however shortly before it took place, then the act of either in furtherance of that common purpose is the act of both; but if the shooting was done by each defendant without concert with the other and on his own individual impulse and design, though caused or induced by the same circumstance and coincidence in point of time, each is liable for his own act, but not that of the other." The jury evidently concluded that the shooting was done "without concert," on the impulse of the moment, and as each of the parties was only liable for his own act, and it was not shown which fired the fatal shot, they, after being out about two hours, returned a verdict of not guilty.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED.—News has just been received from Rankin's camp on the Oregon Pacific railroad that a bridge carpenter known as John McInnes, which name was thought to be an assumed one, was drowned a few days ago in Mary's river. He was under a bridge with two men named Baird and Nelson cutting driftwood. McInnes and Baird were standing on the drift in the middle of the river when something gave way. McInnes turned and jumped into the stream and Baird started for the shore. McInnes went under and only came to the surface once about a hundred feet below the bridge. He made no effort to swim and it was impossible for any of the men to aid him, as he remained on the surface only a short time, when he sank to rise no more. The deceased was about 25 years of age, and was a Scotchman by birth. He started to work for D. Rankin on the O. P. R. R. about the 7th of December, 1884, and was a faithful man. He claimed to have a trunk in the St. Charles hotel in this city. He came from Kansas to Oregon last summer; was about six feet in height and weighed about 180 pounds; light complexion. He left no papers or anything at the camp where he was drowned by which he could be identified. The body has not been recovered, a though Rankin has had men hunting for it each day. The water was high and running very swift, so there is no telling how far the body has been washed down the stream.

ALL THE FAULT OF THE NAME.—On an information filed in the U. S. district court yesterday by Dionisio F. Glurcovich, Captain Watts of the American ship C. Southard Hulbut was arrested by the U. S. marshal on a charge of maltreating a seaman. Glurcovich claims that he was beaten in a most inhuman manner, his head banged against the mizzen mast—in short, the deck was swabbed with him. Captain Watts waived examination and gave bail for his appearance in the sum of $1000. To the sailor the beating he received was no joke; it is likely to prove a serious matter to the captain if the charge is sustained, and it is hoped that no one will think the writer guilty of levity if he suggests that the captain may claim the sailor's name as extenuating circumstances to be offered as justification for the assault and battery. Just think of the captain, being in a hurry for this man to holystone the main deck or scour the chain cable, and having to call Dionisio F. Glurcovich several times in succession. Why, it is enough to make a man butt out his own brains against the mainmast or abaft the binnacle.

AMUSEMENTS WITHOUT END.—People feel the need of something to amuse them these dull times, which accounts for the liberal patronage bestowed on the New Market theater and the Casino. But these places will have to look sharp for their laurels now, as Dick Clinton, an actor from "way back" in the days of the Oro Fino, is about to produce the legitimate drama at the Elite. He will open in a few days with Milton Noble's sensational drama of "The Phoenix," in which Mr. Clinton will take the dual star characters of Royal Keene and Jim Bludsoe. The play is one which is capable of producing any amount of hilarity, and is a favorite all through the east. It has never before been produced north of San Francisco. Chew Sue, manager of the Chinese theater, is also catering to the taste of the great American public, and has put on the boards "The Story of a Dragon," which should be interesting, and "King on the Boats," probably a sort of Chinese Vanderbilt. If our citizens are not made to laugh away all their cares, why, let some more theaters be started.

HEIRS TO AN ESTATE.—Readers of THE OREGONIAN will remember the tragic death of Maurice J. Smith, who was driven out of his mind by being robbed of $2600 at the American Exchange hotel last spring and who shot himself through the head on A street wharf in July last. He was supposed to have died intestate and James Gleason was appointed administrator of his estate, which consisted of $1000 deposited in the First National bank and notes amounting to $6000. Yesterday the county court received a petition from Isabella C. Smith and Amelia W. Smith, sisters of the deceased residing in New York, asking that an accompanying will, executed by him October 31, 1861, be admitted to probate. They state that the will, which bequeaths to them all the real and personal property of their brother, was executed by him and left with them when he started for the war in 1861. They are in poor circumstances and if they succeed in getting the property their brother left, it will be quite a little fortune to them.

STREET ASSESSMENTS TO BE COLLECTED.—City Auditor Carey will in a day or two turn over to the chief of police warrants for the collection of delinquent assessments for the extension of T and North Twenty-first streets. The owners of considerable of the property assessed are unknown to the authorities, and if they know themselves they had better come to the front, pay their assessments and save costs. There are also in the hands of the auditor a number of warrants for damages allowed property owners on these streets which are worth calling for. If the owners do not feel up to the task of calling for these warrants, they can have the money taken care of by sending an order to the reporters' rooms of THE OREGONIAN.

DESCRIPTION OF A DROWNED MAN.—The body of Charles M. Davis, who was accidentally drowned in the McKenzie about seven miles above Hendricks' ferry, a few days ago, has not yet been recovered. He was a young man about 23 years of age, and the distinguishing marks about him are, weight 150 pounds, light mustache, and his clothing consisted of a blue flannel shirt, light colored pants and vest, and heavy boots. Mr. Davis' family came to this state three years ago, and own large tracts of land on the McKenzie. Citizens along the river will confer a great favor on the bereaved family by aiding them in their present endeavor to find the body. Owing to the high stage of water at the time of the accident, the body may have been carried miles before finding lodgment.

WANTED A CHANGE IN THE COLOR.—A fellow whose head was as bare as a billiard ball stepped into a First street drug store yesterday and asked for a bottle of hair restorative. "What kind of hair restorative do you want?" asked the clerk. "I should like black hair restorative," said the fellow; "the hair I had before was red, and my wife did not like the color."

FORFEITED $5000 BAIL.—Young Anderson, jointly indicted with Barnhart for the killing of the Indian William, but who arrived here just too late to "take part" in the trial, has forfeited $5000 bail. He killed an Indian on the Umatilla reservation about a year ago and escaped punishment. It is probably a good thing for Barnhart that Anderson was not tried with him, as the record of the latter would not have done him any good. Some think that Barnhart was ambitious to distinguish himself as his friend had done, by killing an Indian, and further tempted by the apparent safety of the act, as exemplified in Anderson's escape from punishment. Others think that the sight of Anderson on the reservation when he had killed one man so inflamed William's passion that he did fire upon the young man, who shot him in self defense. The truth of the matter is only known to themselves. It would seem, however, in the light of past events as if the Umatilla reservation would be a very good place for them both to keep away from in the future.

DRAGGING FOR THE CABLE.—Attempts were made yesterday afternoon by dragging the river near the east bank, to raise the cable of the telephone company, which was broken during the freshet, probably by the roots of some tree that dragged upon the bottom. Although several men were at work, having a small steamer and a row boat with which to go over the place where the cable was supposed to be, yet they could not find it, and as darkness came on were forced to give up the task for the day. The two boats with men dragging the bottom of the river were objects of interest to all who crossed on the Stark street ferry, and the questions asked were without number. Capt. Robertson remarked that he hoped they would put up a board on the boat to-day with "Dragging for the cable," painted on it in big letters.

GERMAN DAILY EVENING PAPER.—Articles of incorporation of the Northwest German Publishing company were filed in the office of the county clerk yesterday. The incorporators are Philip Schmitz, Curt von Ollerenstedt and F. A. Mayer. The object of the incorporation is to publish a daily evening newspaper in the German language in the city of Portland, to be called the Freie Presse. The capital stock is $15,000 in shares of $100 each. The company expect to get out their first issue about the 15th of February. From the well known literary ability of the gentlemen composing the company, it may safely be assumed that the new paper will fill a field now vacant most satisfactorily.

OFFICES REMOVED.—The Northern Pacific Terminal company, whose offices have been until now located at the corner of Front and E streets yesterday moved into the Cambridge block, on the corner of Third and Morrison streets, where they will occupy a suite of six rooms in the southwest corner. The view from the windows of the new offices, looking out as one does over all other buildings in that vicinity far away to the Cascade range, is a somewhat agreeable change from the former view had by the clerks of the company, when there was nothing before their gaze but dingy iron and gas works and an empty block of ground where half the year there was a pool of stagnant water.

SENT TO THE HOSPITAL.—Application was made yesterday to Chief of Police Parrish and Judge Moreland to send Mrs. S. E. Rice, a poor old woman living in a cottage on Third street, near C, to the St. Vincent's hospital, she having no money or friends to take care of her. An investigation showed that the unfortunate woman needed this care, and policeman Morgan was detailed to remove her to the hospital. This is the woman whom ex-policeman Buck swindled out of her furniture by a species of rascality that should have sent him to jail. He escaped that punishment, however, and is now in San Francisco "bottoming chairs."

THREE YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY.—Chas. Wilson, who on the 31st of December did take, steal and carry away from the residence of John Chammale, one valise and its contents, and from the residence of Julius Hicklin, property to the value of $50, and who pawned some of the articles and was arrested by Policeman Barry and held to answer by Judge Moreland, came up for trial in the state circuit court yesterday. He pleaded guilty to both thefts and was sentenced by Judge Smith to serve two years in the penitentiary for the first and one year for the second.

CHANGES IN COURT RULES.—Judge Smith yesterday modified Nos. 13 and 17 of the rules lately adopted by the state circuit court. The first renders it necessary to number the lines only on each page of documents filed in the court, and the pages, instead of numbering the lines consecutively, as at first required. The second renders it unnecessary in cases of appeal from justice courts to serve the respondent with a copy of the transcript. These changes meet with the unqualified approval of the bar.

"CAMBRIDGE BLOCK."—Hon. H. W. Corbett's new brick block, on the corner of Third and Morrison streets, is now all completed, even to the offices in the fourth story, and has been christened the Cambridge block, after the town of Cambridge, Mass. One thing noticeable about this building is that the interior woodwork is of Oregon cedar, which, being handsomely dressed and varnished with shellac, presents a rich appearance.

DIED AT THE INDIAN SCHOOL.—An Indian girl named Abella Lyle died at the Indian school at Forest Grove on Thursday, of consumption, aged 16 years. The body was sent yesterday to her friends at Puyallup for interment.

At the city jail yesterday when asked for an item Captain Hair exhibited half a dozen new clubs for policemen who have broken theirs in the service, as being the only thing worthy of mention.

The services in connection with the South Portland M. E. mission have been changed as follows: Sunday school 2:30 P. M. instead of 3 P. M., and preaching 3:30 P. M. instead of 7:30 P. M.

A new feature will be presented at the Pavilion skating rink Saturday evening. In addition to skating there will be dancing, the gallery having been fitted up for that purpose, and good music having been engaged.

Ah Nay, for assault and battery on Ah Dong, was fined $20 yesterday by Justice Greene. The prisoner did not pay the fine, but furnished bonds and filed an undertaking for an appeal to the state circuit court.

F. M. Taylor, a disreputable old rascal, was yesterday tried in the police court on a charge of vagrancy, and sent to jail for sixty days. He will not have an opportunity to beat his room rent or board bill for the next two months.

Alfred Caldwell who robbed his brother's store at Salem and was sent to the asylum as non compos mentis, has two little girls who were sent to St. Louis to live with an aunt. Since that time a rich relative has died leaving the two little ones a joint fortune of $40,000.

Mr. William Virtue, a well known banker of Baker City, was in town yesterday. He is going to Salem to make an effort to induce the legislature to make an appropriation for the purpose of sending his large and valuable mineral cabinet of Oregon minerals to the New Orleans exposition. This cabinet was awarded a gold medal at the Centennial exhibition.

THE EAST SIDE.

RIVER OBSTRUCTION—DANGER APPREHENDED.

Some fear is entertained by those interested that the obstruction in the river caused by the collection of drifts around the bridge piers will, if not soon removed, seriously affect navigation on the East Side in its vicinity. The drift has accumulated to such an extent that, except a narrow passage near shore, there is almost a complete dam extending near 200 feet into the river. The effect has been to divert the current west of the obstruction and cause the bottom to shoal east of the current. Soundings taken yesterday about 100 feet below the drift corroborate this proposition. The depth of water was found to be as follows at the different points named: At 20 feet from wharf line, 11 ft. depth; at 60 feet, 9 feet; at 100 feet, 9 feet; at 200 feet, 11½ feet; at 250 feet, 12 feet; at 300 feet, 12½ feet, and at 350 feet from wharf line, 14 feet depth. The greater depth of water at the point sounded nearest the wharf line than at the point forty feet further west, is explained by the light current running near shore; while the remaining figures show the formation of an embankment extending to the limit of the obstruction and declining gradually as it approaches the current. At the time the soundings were made the river was seven feet above low water mark, so that at low water there would be but two feet of water at the shallowest part, viz., from sixty to 150 feet from the wharf line providing the embankment did not increase and reduce the depth of water still more. There is also danger of the drift breaking loose and injuring craft that happens in its way, but this is not probable without the river rises and floats it off, as it doubtless rests on bottom. The injurious effect of the obstruction is already evident and the dangers apprehended may be realized if means be not taken to avert them. The responsible parties, whoever they may be, might save trouble and expense by attending to the matter at once.

NOTES.

The submerged Stark street ferry-boat No. 6 has been successfully floated. Smith & Sturm, who had charge of the pumping, kept continuously at work for about 60 hours, their efforts succeeding about 4 o'clock Thursday morning. The boat will be taken to Smith's yard for necessary repairs.

The new steam launch intended for night service on the Stark street ferry route was successfully launched Thursday afternoon. Her boiler, shafts and rudder are in position, and she is expected to be ready for service in ten days. Her carrying capacity is sixty passengers.

Miss Helen McPheeters, teacher of the fourth grade at the Central school and partner of the firm of McPheeters and Pritchard, formed a new partnership yesterday with Mr. W. A. Wash, editor of the Goldendale Gazette, Rev. S. P. Wilson officiating.

It is likely that the opening of the Y. M. C. A. reading rooms will divert the patrons of the Library Aid Dramatic society. At any rate this is pleaded as a reason for not prosecuting their plans, but the plea is not well taken, as there is considerable difference between an evening reading-room for young men and a circulating library for all.

THE LUNGS ARE STRAINED AND RACKED BY a persistent Cough, the general strength wasted, and an incurable complaint often established thereby. Dr. Jayne's Expectorant is an effective remedy for Coughs and Colds, and exerts a beneficial effect on the Pulmonary and Bronchial Organs.

THE SOUDAN

DISPATCHES FROM GAKDUL.

CAIRO, Jan 16.—Dispatches from the Gakdul wells states that Stewart's force reached there Monday noon, from the Howeinjatt wells. This force consists of a squadron of Hussars, a heavy section of the camel corps, mounted infantry, the Sussex regiment and a naval brigade. Egyptian soldiers engaged in conveying a supply of water during the march behaved in an infamous manner. They drank the rations belonging to others, and refused to obey Colonel Burnaby when he ordered an advance.

INTERESTING READING

Portland Gets a Free Notice from a Kansas Woman Who was Snowed in Here During the Blockade.

The following is a letter from Portland, [illegible] 25, to the Topeka, Kansas Commonwealth. It is not altogether true, but is nevertheless interesting reading:

Portland, the richest, largest and dirtiest town of its size in the United States, is bottled up for an indefinite period. Providence in the form of a snow storm ably assisted by the improvidence of the people, has completely corked up this community.

Imagine Topeka being without a mail for ten days, her railways suspended because it had never occurred to the managers to provide snow plows, her street cars stuck in the snow drifts because it cost too much to shovel them out, her telephone wires lying in tangled masses in the trees and on the house tops, because it cost too much to right them, her theaters using candles because the gas works were disabled, her citizens using snow water because the water mains had burst, and floundering through the drifts on the sidewalks because it cost money to shovel away the snow. And this condition of things continuing not for a day, but for ten days. Of the hundred miles or more of sidewalk in the city, it is safe to say that less than half a mile has been cleared of the snow. In Topeka, when a lady goes out to do shopping she finds an open walk to tread on and courteous clerks to open store doors for her, and some disposition to court her patronage. In Portland she has to flounder along in Indian file, with other unfortunates, and contest her right to a share of the path with drunken sailors and Chinamen, open and close doors herself and invite the clerk, who is flattening his nose against the window pane, to wait upon her.

Since the Villard bubble burst, Portland has been in a condition of helpless collapse. Without enterprise to develop her resources, or sagacity to discern the course of events, she is sitting in the ashes of her hopes while Tacoma and Seattle are planning for her further humiliation.

THE OREGONIAN is making a vigorous effort to rouse the people, but it will be futile. Portland is too well satisfied with being dead.

This is a dreary Christmas. There are a few sleighs in the streets, and occasional symptoms of a faded sort of mirth struggle up through the storm to my window. Muffled figures now and then pass, as some son of a millionaire weaves his way along the trail to the theater or ball with his best girl "toting" along behind. A very solemn sensation is the hilarity of Portland.

A few miles from here are 125 overland passengers stuck in the snow—waiting for spring. For ten days and nights they have paced the floor of those cars or sought sleep on the seats, without bedclothes, and listened for the shouts of the relief party that have not come. There are delicate children of the number, and enfeebled old men and women, and yet the railroad is struggling alone in its gallant fight with the elements for these lives. God only knows which side will be successful, and the people of Portland evidently don't care.

One old lady was on her way to spend Christmas with her daughter in this city, but instead she is eating raw wheat for Christmas dinner while her daughter has been a corpse for a week. Such conditions usually distress sympathetic people and rouse the noble and generous qualities in their natures, but Portland is indifferent. Suppose these trains were blockaded at Eudora, and the country between there and Topeka was uninhabited. Suppose members of Topeka families were on these trains and had not had a full meal for ten days. Suppose those families knew their relatives were on this good Christmas day chewing handsful of wheat to keep soul and body together. Under these circumstances would the people of Topeka leave the Santa Fe road to fight the storm alone? Would they say, "The railroad has more money than we have, let them fight it out"? Would the Santa Fe officers have to give men $100 each to carry a few pounds of bread to those people to keep them from starving? I think not. I think the bells would be rung, the people called together, purses opened, expeditions organized and bountiful supplies carried by swift feet until every craving appetite was satisfied—until every man's fears were allayed and every child's tears were dried.

But Portland is not Topeka and there are more on this coast than the Chinese whose ways are "peculiar."

P S.—If this letter moves on Portland time, I shall be in Topeka before it arrives next summer and will read the proof for you.

I [illegible] tried doctors again and after several weeks they left me a cripple on crutches for life, as they said. I met a friend and told him my case, and he said Hop Bitters had cured him and would cure me. I poohed at him, but he was so earnest I was induced to use them again.

In less than four weeks I threw away my crutches and went to work lightly, and kept on using the bitters for five weeks, until I became as well as any man living, and have been so for [illegible]

It has also cured my wife, who had been sick for years, and has kept her and my children well and healthy with from two to three bottles per year. There is no need to be sick at all if these bitters are used. J J BERK, ex Supervisor.

DREAMLAND

By a route obscure and lonely,
Haunted by ill angels only,
Where an Eidolon named Night,
On a black throne reigns upright,
I have reached these lands but newly
From an ultimate dim Thule—
From a wild weird clime that lieth sublime,
Out of Space—out of Time.

Bottomless vales and boundless floods,
And chasms and caves and Titan woods,
With forms that no man can discover
For the dews that drip all over;
Mountains toppling evermore
Into seas without a shore;
Seas that restlessly aspire,
Surging, unto skies of fire;
Lakes that endlessly outspread
Their lone waters—lone and dead,—
Their still waters—still and chilly
With the snows of the lolling lily.

By the lakes that thus outspread
Their lone waters, lone and dead,—
Their sad waters, sad and chilly
With the snows of the lolling lily—
By the mountains—near the river
Murmuring lowly, murmuring ever—
By the gray woods—by the swamp
Where the toad and the newt encamp,—
By the dismal tarns and pools
Where dwell the Ghouls,—

By each spot the most unholy—
In each nook most melancholy—
There the traveler meets aghast
Sheeted Memories of the Past—
Shrouded forms that start and sigh
As they pass the wanderer by—
White-robed forms of friends long given,
In agony, to the Earth—and Heaven.

For the heart whose woes are legion
'Tis a peaceful, soothing region—
For the spirit that walks in shadow
'Tis—oh, 'tis an Eldorado!
But the traveler, traveling through it,
May not—dare not openly view it;
Never its mysteries are exposed
To the weak human eye unclosed;
So wills its King, who hath forbid
The uplifting of the fringed lid;
And thus the sad Soul that here passes
Beholds it but through darkened glasses.

By a route obscure and lonely,
Haunted by ill angels only,
Where an Eidolon named Night,
On a black throne reigns upright,
I have wandered home but newly
From this ultimate dim Thule.

—Edgar Allan P

ON A COUNTRY ROAD

Along these low pleached lanes, on such a day,
So soft a day as this, through shade and sun,
With glad grave eyes that scanned the glad way,
And hearts still hovering o'er a song begun,
And smile that warmed the world with benis
Our father, lord long since of lordly rhyme,
Long since hath haply ridden, when the lime
Bloomed broad above him, flowering where came.

Because thy passage once made warm this cl

For earth and man's new spirit, fain to spur
Things past for dreams of better to be won,
Through many a century since thy funeral chi

To have spared not thee for very love or sha
And yet, while mists round last year's memo

Our father Chaucer, here we praise thy name

Each turn of the old wild road whereon we st
Meseems might bring us face to face with on Whom seeing, we could not but give thanks, pray
For England's love our father and her son
To speak with us as once in days long done
With all men, sage and churl and monk and m
Who knew not as we know the soul sublime
That sang for song's love more than lust of fa
Yet though this be not, yet in happy time
Our father Chaucer, here we praise thy name

Names once beloved; but, seeing the sun same,
As birds of autumn fain to praise the prime,
Our father Chaucer, here we praise thy name.

TO A TERRAPIN

O terrapin, terrapin, whither away
Thou slow moving, evil-eyed tramp,
What destiny tempts thee, old pilgrim, to stra
So far from the terrapin camp?
Why prowl at my garden, thou sauntering cru
Of inscrutable cunning—why sneak
And recoil like a snake, with an air of distrust
When a gentleman deigneth to speak?

Thou toothless, old triple-lashed rover, what n
Bringest thou from the terrapin isles,
And what of thy trip thro' the dusks and the d
O'er the pathless and perilous miles?
What bloody banditti beleaguer thy way,
And where does thy lone journey trend?
O prince of the turtles, make answer, I pray,
To the querulous poet thy friend!

Thou Wandering Jew of the terrapin race,
What marvellous mysteries lie
Tormentingly locked in thy taciturn face,
And forever unsealed in thine eye!
For thee doth some terrapin mistress await
In her portable palace, I wot—
For thee sits she night after night at the gate
And sadly complains of her lot.

O terrapin, terrapin, whither away
Thro' the dews and the dazzle of dawn?
No longer, poor gypsy, thy steps I will stay,
But will think of thee often when gone.
Thy road is as rugged, no doubt, as my own,
Thy soul is as sunless and sore—
So I wish thee good morning, thou terrapin lo
And bid thee God-speed from my door.
